Pavalko Resigns as Senior President

Twelve Men To Graduate Next Week

It will be January graduation for 12, as a dozen St. Joe men prepare to close out their college careers next week. Although officially graduating at the end of the semester, the seniors will not get their sheepskins until Commencement Day, June 8.

The twelve graduates are:

Joseph Brosnahan, Chicago. Joe, a marketing major, is a past president of the Monogram Club and a four-letter man in football. He was voted I.C.C. All-Conference tackle last year.

Emmanuel Cannonito, Chicago. "Bud" is a cum laude philosophy major. In his freshman year, he was elected class president and also has held down the presidency of the Indiana Junior Philosophical Association.

Edgar Cobett, Canton, Ohio. A physical education major, Ed was chosen honorary football captain during the past season. A four-letter man, he too made the I.C.C. conference team—as a guard.

James Houk, Logansport, Ind. Jim is another marketing major and a member of the Don Bosco Club, Commerce Club, and Father Falter Post. His presidency of the latter gave Jim a Student Council seat.

Robert King, Louisville. A geology major, Bob has been president of the Geology Club and also a Student Council member.

Joseph Martin, Pittsburgh. Joe also majored in geology and he too is a past president. He was also treasurer of the Albertus Magnus Society.

Paul O'Connor, Fort Wayne. Paul is an accounting major.

Philip Stahl, Greentown, Ind. Phil, who majored in business administration, was a member of the Commerce Club and Columbian Players and was an associate editor of the 1951 PHASE.

Daniel Sullivan, Chicago. Dan, long-known for his top-notch intramural teams, is an economics major.

THE NEW AND THE OLD

Newly-elected senior class president Bob Hummel receives congratulations from outgoing Frank Pavalko, after Hummel had been chosen for the office, Jan. 14. Jim Drake, who was nominated by his class to be valedictorian at graduation, watches, as does senior moderator Father Carl Nieset.

How the New Constitution Works

By FRANK J. PAVALKO

Turn right. Turn left. Move forward. Step backwards. Stop! You can't get away from them. You can't get away from the battery of questions about the new Student Union Constitution. What is it? Why have it? Who's running it? And why is it costing me five dollars? Step aboard, friends, and we'll take you for a trip on the Train of Replies. All aboard? O.K., let's go!

Soph-Frosh Dance Slated for Feb. 16

After several rocky moments, definite plans are being laid for the freshman-sophomore dance Feb. 16.

Ray Pfriem and John Gorman, class presidents and co-chairmen of the affair, have announced that the event will be a simple dance, with Paul Gates and his orchestra supplying the music. The dance will last about three hours, starting at 9:00 P.M., and is open to all St. Joe students.

Committee co-chairmen, one soph and one frosh in each case, are George Kuhn and Jim Sloan, theme and decorations; Buel Adams and Jim Greene, publicity; (Turn to Page Four)

What's Its Purpose? To let all students participate in the governing of the college in matters of student affairs and to give them the opportunity to gain experience and leadership in democratic procedures.

Well, Who Runs It? Its governing body is the Student Council, which consists of the four class presidents, the four officers of the Council and the chairman of the Inter-Club Committee.

Who Elects the Student Council Officers? The student body will elect its Student Council officers. The first election will take place this coming spring. The class presidents will be chosen by their respective classes and the chairman of the Inter-Club Committee will be elected by that committee.

What's the Inter-Club Committee? It is a Committee consisting of all the club presidents on the campus. It will act as an advisory board to the Student Council but will not be an immediate part of it. The only member of the committee who will be on the Council will be the chairman.

Bob Hummel Succeeds Frank in Office As Drake Chosen Class Valedictorian

For the first time in three years, a new face is seen at the helm of class '52; a new hand is guiding the reins. Bob Hummel was chosen to replace Frank Pavalko and lead the seniors during their remaining semester, at an extraordinary election and meeting held Jan. 14. Coupled with this, class treasurer Jim Drake was picked to be valedictorian at graduation this June.

Coming swiftly on the heels of Pavalko's resignation of the post he had held since his sophomore year, Hummel was chosen on the third ballot after a torrid battle with Bill Ferguson and John Bassett.

Pavalko Thanks Seniors

The meeting opened with a majority of the seniors present, along with class moderator Father Carl Nieset. After expressing his gratitude to the class for the help and assistance it had rendered him in the last three years, Pavalko revealed that it was with great sadness he gave up the position he had so long held. He also thanked Father Nieset for his services to the class during his tenure of office. Then the business at hand was taken up.

Seven nominations, including the name of Pavalko himself, were put up for the class valedictorian honor, but it soon became apparent that the race was between Jim Drake and Joe Gill. After Gill had taken an early two-vote lead, Drake gained, and passed Gill at 8-7. When the final tallies were in, Drake had 11 votes, Gill 8, and 15 other votes were divided among the remaining five nominees. As no majority was reached, a second ballot became necessary. On this ballot, Drake pulled away at once, never was headed, and took the honor by a tally of 24-10.

Hummel Ekes Out Win

A new president had to be chosen. As the seniors have no constitution, vice-president Phil (Turn to Page Four)

Frank Pavalko resigned as senior class president, Don Nowicki gave up the Student Council treasurership, and Vladimir Pregelj turned in his papers as local NFCCS representative Jan. 11, in one of the most important Student Council meetings in the last several years.

Main topic on the agenda was the initiation of machinery to put the new constitution into effect next semester. It was decided that the four present Council officers would be retained this year instead of holding a special election of the student body in the near future. Other members of the nine-man Council under the new set-up will be the class presidents and the NFCCS representative, to be elected by and from the heads of the campus clubs.

Pavalko and Nowicki Choose

Because the constitution specifically forbids one man holding two or more of the above offices, Pavalko, who was both senior class and Student Council president, and Nowicki, who, besides being junior class prexy, was also Council treasurer, were forced to decide which of the two offices they would retain and which they would relinquish. Pavalko chose to keep the Council presidency; Nowicki stuck to his class.

The meeting opened innocuously enough with the passage of several minor bills, mostly relating to gifts to priests on sick leave, and other short matters. The on-and-off soph-frosh dance was voted a loan of $100 for its financing. The first real opposition occurred on the next bills and these were tabled to committees for further investigation. These bills include measures to ice down the pond for skating, to have a bus meet students at the train station after holidays, and to replace the defunct rec hall TV set.

Constitution Voted On

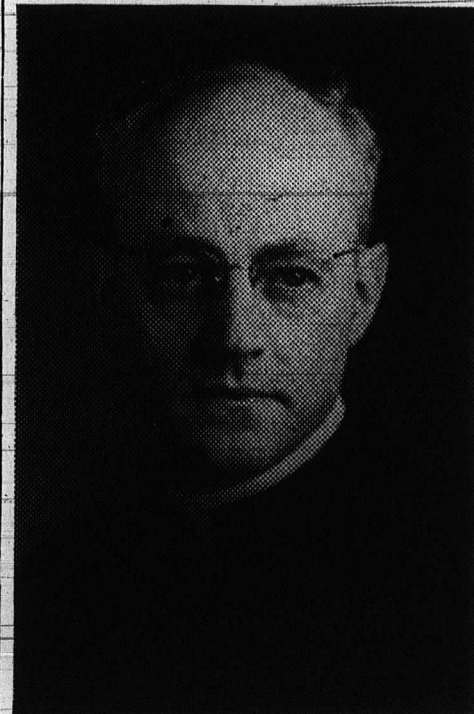

Then the constitution was taken (Turn to Page Four)

Father Davitt, STUFF Advisor, Transferred after 4½ Years Here

Transferred after four and a half years of activity on the St. Joe campus, STUFF and PHASE moderator Father Charles Davitt recently received notice of his appointment as chaplain of the motherhouse of the Sisters of Mercy of the Holy Cross, Holy Cross Institute, Merrill, Wis.

Coming here in 1947, from the seminary of the Society of the Precious Blood, Carthage, Ohio, where he edited the Precious Blood Messenger, Father Davitt has been associated as faculty advisor to the two campus publications ever since his arrival. He was appointed secretary to the St. Joseph's Alumni Association in 1948, and became moderator of the servers' Don Bosco Club upon its organization last year.

Father Davitt's position as STUFF moderator here will be taken over by Mr. Thomas Scheiber, director of the News Bureau, while Father John Baechle will be the new advisor to PHASE.

ONE WEEK TO GO

The smiling faces of semester grads Ed Cobett, Jim Houk, Joe Brosnahan, Phil Stahl, Bud Cannonito, Paul O'Connor, John Timmons, Joe Martin, and Dan Sullivan prove that comprehensives aren't as bad as they seem.

Farewell to a Friend

In the Oct. 24, 1947, issue of STUFF, four lines announced the appointment of Father Charles Davitt as faculty advisor to the paper. Now, four years and some 70 issues later, it is time to say goodbye.

To all of us working on STUFF, to the members of the PHASE staff, and to the whole student body, the announcement of Father Davitt's new appointment came as a surprise—a most unpleasant surprise for all concerned. From his first moment here, Father Davitt had always been ready to give whatever help he could at any time. From his countless suggestions have flown new ideas and new life for both this paper and the yearbook. Many are the crises that have been weathered under his guidance.

It is difficult to see him go. Father Davitt may be replaced, but he can never be forgotten by any who have the fortune to know him.

To you, Father Davitt, from the entire student body, and in particular from the staffs of STUFF and PHASE and all who worked closely with you, both past and present, our best wishes go with you for a life of continued service and zeal. May God bless you and guide all your endeavors.

Once again, Father Davitt, many thanks.

A column that sends a toast to everyone because everyone IS news!

A DOUBLE TOAST . . . A FAREWELL TOAST . . . TO FATHER DAVITT! A MAN WHO NEVER LEARNED TO SAY "NO" WHEN IT CAME TO HELPING THE STUDENT BODY. IT IS WITH DEEP REGRET THAT WE WATCH HIS PARTING. OVER THE YEARS HE HAS BEEN A HELPFUL FRIEND TO HUNDREDS. HIS DEPARTURE WILL LEAVE A VACUUM, WHICH, WE FEEL, WILL NEVER BE COMPLETELY FILLED. TO HIM WE SAY, "THANK YOU," . . . SINCERELY, YET INADEQUATELY. THANK YOU, FATHER, FOR ALL YOU HAVE DONE, AND MAY GOD BLESS YOU!

PLAYERS INCORPORATED, who presented "The School For Wives" here, sent the following note to Bob Kunka, who substituted for one of their actors.

Dear Bob,

The Players would like to extend a sincere thanks to you for the service which you kindly rendered us. That was the first such desperate situation in which we have found ourselves on this tour and never expected to manage it so easily. Thanks to your keen sense of showmanship, the scene was carried off flawlessly.

Signed
Bob Dietz

AND THEIR OPINION of the student body was expressed in a letter to Father Heiman:

Dear Father,

We were so very happy to come back to St. Joe's. Not only was it such a good audience but we enjoyed tremendously the warm hospitality extended by all.

There is really a great bunch of fellows in that student body. We talked at length about them on the drive back to Chicago . . . they are an exceptional group, we assure you.

Sincerely,
Bob Dietz

OUR COLLEGE was converted into an overnight airport last week when the Army asked St. Joseph's for permission to park eight Fighter Jets on the south side of the campus. On their way to Florida by motor transport they were left here for the night and moved out the following morning.

SIDE GLANCES: Mr. W. J. Stasko writes "that his son Ronald Stasko, '51, is at Sampson Air Base, Geneva N. Y. and is anxious to pay a visit to the old campus." Other sources provided us with the information that Thomas Kremp, ex-'52, is with the 101st Airborne, Cp. Breckenridge, Ky. . . . Ted DeCroot, ex-'52, is at the same camp . . . Don Gault, ex-'53, is with the Army in Verdun, France . . . Jerry Fleck, ex-'52, is a cook in Korea . . . Joe Moore, '50, is with the Navy Air Corp in Florida . . . THE LOUISVILLE BASKETBALL GAME proved a lot of fun for the 35 students who made the long trip. After the game Chuck Yates entertained at his home and acted as host throughout the evening, to some 75 St. Joe students and Alumni. Reports indicated that all concerned had one heckuva good time.

UNCALLED FOR, UNNECESSARY AND UNCOUTH were the hyperbolic write-ups of the game in the Louisville papers. The neophyte tactics employed in the remarks against Willard Kellogg, left much to be desired from newspapers that classify themselves as "cosmopolitan." The "Gateway to the South" kicked this College in the face!

Fr. Roof reports that the following St. Joe Alumni were at the Louisville game . . . Henry Kauffman, '47, Bill Smith, '43, Dick Cody, '41, Paul Hayden, ex-'41, Jim Thornbury, '35, Charles Klapke, '43, Gene Molloy, ex-'53, and Rev. Thomas Buren, '34. Mr. Cappuccilli Praises Players' Moliere Farce

By MR. RALPH CAPPUCILLI
As Told To TOM SUESS

"Delightful," was the accolade given by CP director Ralph Cappuccilli to Moliere's "School for Wives," recently presented here by Players, Inc., a national classical repertory group.

As written by the famous sixteenth-century French playwright, the play was a "comedy of manners," satirizing contemporary attitudes of love and romance. As such the original presentation contained very little action upon stage. The comedy was rather derived largely from the witty interplay of intellects, and satire was therefore uppermost.

Burlesque Highlighted

In consideration of today's audiences and changed social attitudes, however, it was the evident intent of director Walter Kerr, author of the Broadway success, "Touch and Go," to highlight the burlesque quality of the play.

In undergoing the transition, Kerr is to be lauded, for he utilized to the fullest the setting, dialogue and action. Naturally, a great deal more action was inserted into the play, and the situations were presented with more emphasis on the comic and the burlesque. Dialogue and movements in general were considerably speeded up, adding also a note of comic confusion.

In the lead role of Arnolphe, J. Robert Dietz was excellent. He exhibited admirable feeling and stage presence, and through his excellent delivery, Moliere's wit oozed delightfully.

Moiya Darragh, as the ingenue of ingenues, Agnes, was commendable also, making good use of her face and eyes in compensating for her lack of dialogue.

Moore in Supporting Role

Brennan Moore, in the supporting lead of Horace, was good, and in general helped to sustain the play quite well. However, one did feel that his performance was a trifle overly-soft and his delivery somewhat fast, a fault which could be attributed to other members of the supporting cast as well.

Though they did not work together with the feeling and precision exhibited in their performance of "Much Ado About Nothing," presented in a previous visit here, the Players were nevertheless good. One could not help but admire, as well as enjoy, the verve and sheer zest with which they seemed to perform. Louis Camuti, as the Scribe, though on a couple of occasions guilty of overplaying, was particularly amusing.

Lighting was quite good, as was the impressionistic set. This was skillfully arranged in a curving, sweeping fashion. This "curved line" motif constituted an adroit thematic device which captured the soft, over-romantic spirit of Moliere's time, which was evident also in the fluid, sweeping movements of the players, as well as in the delivery of their lines.

"School for Wives" was certainly the sort of play one would rather not have to review and analyze. Despite the flaws mentioned above, over and above all discussion, one could still sit back and enjoy it heartily. It remained throughout, good comedy and good fun.

Advice for Exam Week

Every evening around study time it becomes more evident that the quality which is most desirable in a fellow student is silence—yes, silence, that ever-present bane of the school-boy. For, as much as we might enjoy the beautiful baritone voice of the guy next door, or the classy arrangement on Jake's new record, or the dainty plucking of a guitar in the room down the hall, still all those celestial sounds become strangely obnoxious as they come streaming into our ears in the midst of a rugged class assignment. In other words, for most of us it is much easier to study in a hall that is quiet than in one which resounds with a variety of disturbing noises.

So, taking this from a prospective angle, let's all try to subdue our natural inclination to entertain the whole hall. Let's think of the other guy before we emit that blood-curdling howl. Let's have mercy on him as we turn on our radio or victrola. Maybe you do think that Fats Waller is the greatest thing that ever happened to American music, but there is a slight chance that the gentleman next door doesn't hold the same opinion, especially when he is trying to solve a physics problem. Or perchance you are a devoted follower of Peter Ilich Tchaikovsky; there is a more than equal chance that the other lads in the hall aren't as enraptured by the Fifth Symphony as you are. And though you pride yourself on beneficent hospitality, it isn't necessary to inform the entire student body that you have a guest in the room!

Which leads to another point: if you must visit another room it isn't a bad idea to find out if perhaps the resident would like to study. Occasionally such a one is found! There are many other examples that could be cited—baseball in the corridor, vocal calisthenics after lights-out, personal choir practice during study period—but we will leave them to the imagination of the reader. In short, gentlemen, let's wear our manners during study hours. E. F. B.

Overtime Thriller Copped by Pumas

The Grapevine

By VINCE BALDASSARI

FOR MANY YEARS patrolling the outfield for the baseball team has been a hazardous task. The right-fielder on any well-hit ball would have to scramble over a three-foot incline, across a concrete sidewalk, into a maze of bushes and up against the brick wall of the science building. For the left-fielder there were always such obstacles as the bandstand, the flagpole and a few newly-planted saplings. But there are going to be some changes made. Starting this spring the outfielders can roam at will without fear since the baseball diamond will be moved to a new location directly west of the fieldhouse. As soon as the weather allows, work will begin on the lay-out of the diamond, and the erection of a permanent backstop plus grandstands.

The MAJOR SHORTCOMING of the St. Joe team against Louisville was a lack of height, according to Coach Scharf.

"The shortest men starting for Louisville were the two 6-foot, 4-inch guards and they looked small in comparison with their teammates. Usually those big fellows aren't too good at dribbling and running, but these boys didn't seem to have any trouble with fundamentals."

The Pumas received compliments on their team play, which many said surpassed that of the Kentuckians, but when it came to grabbing rebounds the Cardinals couldn't be stopped.

FOOTBALL COACH Gene Fetter attended the American Football Coaches' Association meeting in Cincinnati, Jan. 9-11. Problems of coaching were discussed and movies of games were shown.

THE CREAM of St. Joe's bowlers met Valparaiso on Jan. 13 at the Maple Lanes and the result was a 5-0 white-washing. While sweeping the series, the Crusaders high average was 183, compared to the Puma high of 164. St. Joe keglers representing the intramural league were Adrian Fredeman, Lou White, Bob Michalski, Jack Corbett, John Hentschel, Dan Kopp, Vince Colletti, and your truly.

Indiana State Hurdle To Puma Title Hopes

Indiana State and St. Joe are running one-two in the ICC race up to Sunday, Jan. 20. The Pumas face the Sycamores here in the game to decide the league leader, Feb. 9.

In the Midlands Conference, St. Ambrose holds a half game lead over the Pumas in a very close race. St. Joe journeys to Davenport, Ia., Feb. 3, to engage the Bees in the crucial game.

Xavier Frosh Out for Revenge on Sophs

Some time after the semester examinations the frosh of Xavier Hall will attempt to avenge themselves for the 36-0 defeat handed them by the sophs in the football class game, as the two classes meet on the basketball court. Joe Cain was nominated by the freshmen to lead his class, with John Kasing in charge of the sophs. Once again the second-year men are the favorites.

With almost half the regular season completed, it is plain that the Miceteers, led by John Kasing, have a little too much talent in the persons of Father Kuhns and Irwin Staab to be rated lower than first. Joe Cain and Art LeClair have kept the Slickers close behind in second place, while Joe Sylvester's Zinkers, capitalizing on the fast break, are solidly in third. The remaining four teams are a little less deadly, with Tom Bir's Rip-

Great Lakes Sinks Pumas

Freethrowitis caught up with the St. Joe Pumas again on the night of Jan. 7 and the result was a 76-75 defeat administered to them by the Sailors of the Great Lakes Training Station on the latter's home court. Each team hit 31 times from the field but the Sailors sank 14 of 22 from the charity stripe while the Pumas converted on only 13 of 35. The game was the fifth consecutive victory for the Navy men without a loss.

Coach Dick Scharf elected to start his second five against the Bluejackets because of their fine play against the varsity in practice session. But the strategy backfired as the men from Great Lakes scored 20 points in each of the first two periods to run up a 40-27 halftime lead.

St. Joe could do little to cut down the lead in the third quarter and entered the final period on the short end of a 57-47 score. But the Pumas, lead by Bernie Boff, Jack Dwyer and Willie Kellogg, really caught fire in the final ten minutes of play and caught the Sailors at 75-75 with only one minute left to play. After Kellogg hit the tying fielder, Guard Billie Byrne dropped in a free toss in the last seconds to spell the third St. Joe defeat in nine starts.

The Bluejackets were paced by forward Jack Lindbloom, former freshman star at Bradley University, who was averaging 15 points per game. Against the Pumas he made 20.

Center Boff led the St. Joe scoring with 18 points, followed by Dwyer and Kellogg, who accounted for 17 apiece. Boff made 8 of 14 shots attempted, Dwyer, 7 of 11 and Kellogg 7 of 15.

JV's Take Shape After Bad Start

Now that the basketball season is in full swing, the junior varsity, after a poor start, has begun to take shape under the leadership of coach Gene Fetter. The team has played four games at present, opening with a 59-59 tie against Indiana State, and following with losses to Inland Steel of Gary and the Wabash College junior varsity. A solid trouncing of the St. Joe Senior All-Stars, 68-52, sent the boys on the victory trail.

Starting forwards for the JV's are Bill Gehring, North Judson, Ind., and Bob Houk, Kentucky, all-starter from Louisville. At center, Terry MacCarthy of Chicago, at 6'3", the biggest man on the starting five, is currently boasting a 10-point average per game. Two stellar guards, Gus Pasquini and Bill Fitzgerald, both from Chicago, round out the team. Coach Fetter can also call on reserves Chuck Yates, Jack Clark, Pete Fenlon, Steve Oleskiewicz, Jim Zid, Jim Gordon, Mike Cerney, John Clark, Bob Walke, and Paul Saner for heavy work.

In the last scrimmage game with the varsity the team looked very good and clicked as a unit. Games are scheduled with Ball State, Evansville, Indiana State, Valparaiso, and Wabash. The team possesses a good deal of talent and Dick Scharf, head coach, can look forward to a lot of assistance from some of those boys on the varsity next season.

pers likely to finish fourth. Fifth place should go to Carl Bobay's Bojabs, who had trouble before snaring their first victory earlier this season. The Epicures, with Francis Molson at the helm, seem doomed for sixth, with the Lippers and Floyd Braun likely to bring up the rear.

Boff's Extra-Period Free Throw Spells 69-68 Loss for Ball State

St. Joe Swamped As Louisville Wins Decisive Encounter

The South apparently began its long-awaited resurrection Jan. 12, as the Louisville Cardinals swarmed all over the St. Joe Pumas to the tune of 104-54. Louisville's 45 baskets and 14 free throws enabled the Southerners to set a new scoring record, both for themselves and for their field house.

The only bright spot in the Puma attack was the play of Jack Dwyer and Willie Kellogg. Dwyer led all the St. Joe men in scoring and topped all but one of the Cardinals while making 21 points. Kellogg snagged 10 for himself.

Bob Lochmueller, the pride of Louisville, lasted but a short while, aggravating a knee injury early in the second quarter and leaving the game with 11 points for 10 minutes' work. High scorers for the Redbirds were guard Chuck Noble with 26 and forward Bobby Brown with 18. The victory was Louisville's eleventh in 13 starts and the Pumas absorbed their fourth loss in 10 games.

Overcoming a ten-point halftime deficit, the St. Joe Pumas, with a last-minute onslaught, defeated the Ball State Cardinals Jan. 19, in an overtime by the score of 69-68. The Pumas trailed throughout almost the entire contest before pulling the game out of the fire. The game reached a climax when forward Ralph Meyer dropped in a rebound shot and center Bernie Boff put through two free throws in the five minute overtime period. The team put on an effective freeze in the last minute to gain victory. The score at the end of the regulation time limit was knotted at 65-65.

Getting off to a slow start St. Joseph was into arrears by a 17-12 score at the end of the first quarter. Leader in the Cardinal attack was their sharpshooting forward, John Cross. State continued to dominate play in the second quarter as it surged to a 39-29 lead at intermission. Poor rebounding seemed to be the main Puma weakness throughout the first half as the taller Cardinals had much the better control of the backboards.

Pumas Pick Up Ground

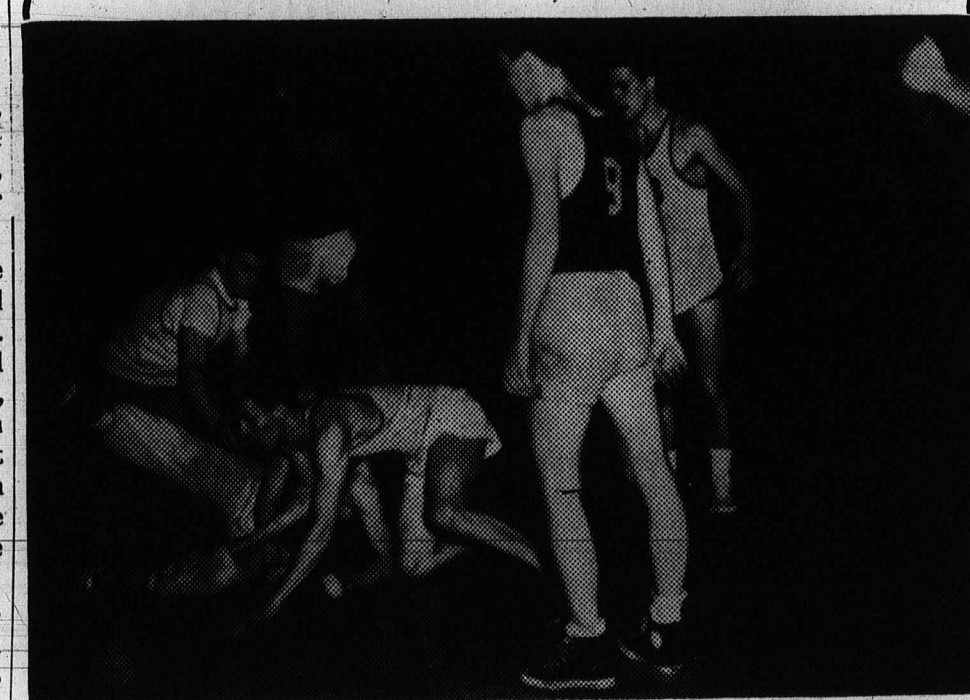

St. Joe picked up a little ground at the start of the third quarter and pulled to within five points of State as the period ended but, soon after, dropped back into its ten-point deficit. Then the rally came and the Pumas did the impossible. Trailing by ten points with only a scant five minutes remaining, the Pumas started to narrow the gap.

Two field goals by forward Bill Elbert, one by Jim Drake and one by Willard Kellogg cut down the margin. State tried to fight back and hold its rapidly diminishing lead, but St. Joe was on the march. Field goals by Drake and Boff overtook the Cardinals with seconds remaining, 65-64, but forward Bob Newton's charity toss tied the score and sent the contest into an extra period. The final few minutes of the game were fast and furious, with the Scharfmenn striving desperately to turn the tide of battle and overcome a seemingly insurmountable lead while State was attempting to cling to its slim margin.

Then came the aforementioned field goal and two free throws offset by but one field goal and one free throw by Ball State, giving St. Joe a hard fought victory.

Bernie Boff took scoring honors for the night with 21 tallies, while forward Cross lead the Ball State Cardinals with a total of 13.

INTRAMURAL SCRAMBLE

Two underclassman teams fight for possession of the elusive basketball in a game late in the first round of play. Second round play starts after semester examinations with competition in the three leagues still too keen to predict any ultimate winners.

Faculty Changes Due at Semester

With the start of the second semester there will be three changes on the faculty roster. Those returning as active members will be Rev. Robert F. Lechner, who was on sick leave the first semester, and Rev. Dominic B. Gerlach, who has completed graduate work for an M.A. degree at St. Louis University. Father Lechner will teach philosophy and Father Gerlach will conduct history courses.

Leaving at the semester will be Rev. Francis B. Sullivan, who is returning to the University of Ottawa to write his dissertation for an S.T.D. degree in Theology.

Why Must Each Student Pay Five Dollars? To enable the Council to function. No government can function without money.

What do They Intend to do With All This Money? With this money, the Council intends to provide a program of much needed social events. This includes week-end dances, pep rallies, signs of welcome for special events, student trips, awards for outstanding students, and special utilities for the Rec Hall (like repairing the TV set). It will also be spent for operational costs, such as paying for phone bills, stationery, telegrams and the like.

Who Controls This Money? A regular bookkeeping system will be employed. Father Koller will be moderator of the fund. No one individual will be able to spend money. All appropriations will have to be approved by the Council. No money will be spent unless it benefits all the students. No appropriations will be made to individual clubs. Statements of expenditures will be published in STUFF periodically so the students may see how their money is being spent.

What Other Powers Does the Council Have? Through committees appointed by its President it will meet with the Dean of the College to discuss student viewpoints on matters of curriculum and instructions. It will also meet with the Faculty Athletic Committee and make recommendations pertaining to sports and recreation. It shall also meet with the Dean of Men and make suggestions for drawing up rules and regulations. The Council shall have absolute power over all social events on the campus except the Spring Formal and the Homecoming dance.

Can Anyone Veto the Decisions and Acts of the Council? Yes, the President of the College may veto any irregular acts of the Council.

Well, the ride on the Train of Replies is over. Here's hoping what you've read has given you a clearer picture of the situation. If there are still any blank spots in it, let's hear from you!

it is a complete job." Father Esser replying, "Do you mean to say you didn't do the job 'Thoreauly'?"

DIFFERENT OPINIONS: One Columbian Player explaining with enthusiasm the possibilities of taking the song "Shrimp Boat" and building a stage setting around it for a musical number said, "I can see it now . . . the boats coming up the river . . . the chorus singing . . . the costumes . . . the music . . . the animation . . . and, of course, myself as the star of the show." One listener (Ron Cherry) turned and asked caustically, "What! Do you mean you would be the 'Shrimp'?"

THE GEOLOGY CLUB is publishing a Newsletter for its Alumni members. Bob Schaaf and Al LaTorra are its first Editors. Good Luck! CONGRATULATIONS to James Drake on being elected by the Senior class to the honor of Class Valedictorian. An excellent choice!

IN CLOSING: we leave you with this thought: "Hell is only half-full. Stack-up the blue chips where they count!" . . . Good luck on the Finals and may you all get at least one "A." GUTEN TAG!

"SCHOOL FOR WIVES"

Presented by Players, Inc., on the Collegeville stage Jan. 7, the Moliere farce, "School for Wives" was well received. In this scene near the end of the play, Oronte (John Marzocco) listens to the explanations of Henrique (Henry Sutton) as a Scribe (Louis Camuti) and an Indian attendant (the CP's own Bob Kunka) retain their composure.

Two Mixers Scheduled By Council Social Group

The Student Council Social Committee has scheduled a mixer here with St. Xavier College, Chicago, Feb. 8, and another with St. Francis College, Fort Wayne, April 25.

Don Hathaway, of the Social Committee, is in charge of arranging these dances. He has written to St. Mary-of-the-Woods, Mun-delein, and several other Catholic girls' colleges attempting to set possible dates for mixers here. The dances will be held in the rec hall and will be open to all students.

Senior Meeting

Gilbert did not automatically succeed to the vacated position. A vote was necessary on this question and Gilbert, already a member of the Student Council, lost out, 21-12.

Four nominations were proffered for the presidency. Hummel, Bill Ferguson, John Bassett, and Don Clark received the backing of their class members and the first ballot was underway. It was close all the way, with none of the first three leading by much at any time. As the last vote went on the board, Ferguson led with 12, Bassett had 11, and Hummel followed with 10 votes.

On the second vote, Ferguson took an early lead, but Hummel's last-minute rush gave the former only a 13-12 edge at this point. Eight of John Bassett's nine backers swung to Hummel on the third ballot and it was all over, Hummel defeating Ferguson by a 20-14 count.

The passing of the constitution and the reports of committee chairmen were the chief topics of conversation at the most recent meeting of the St. Joseph's Father's Club of Chicago, Jan. 14. Father Rufus Esser addressed the gathering, with Fathers Pax, Otte, Kaiser, and Baird in attendance. It was decided to hold an executive meeting on the campus next month, at which time the date for the annual summer retreat will be scheduled.

In the future, all prospective members except fathers of St. Joe students will be screened by the executive board. Membership is open to fathers, friends, and anyone interested in St. Joseph's.

15 of Glee Club Sing Thursday

Thursday evening, Jan. 17, Father Lawrence Heiman directed 15 picked members of the St. Joseph's Glee Club in a special concert presented in Rensselaer before district representatives of the Minneapolis-Moline Implement Company.

To entertain the local dealers, the group offered a variety of selections, essentially the same numbers as those which were heard here in the Christmas concert. The quartet, composed of Edward Kafka, Lou White, Miro Pregelj, and Bob Shanley, sang three numbers. Ron Favorite, second bass, provided an extra attraction with an imitation of Al Jolson singing "Swanee" and "Sonny Boy."

up. A motion to hold special elections to choose the four Council officers in early February was voted down in the closest balloting of the day, 9-5. A rival motion to keep the same four officers in power was then passed, 12-2.

The next ballot was the crux of the matter. A motion to permit Pavalko and Nowicki to retain both offices for this year only, giving the Council seven, instead of nine, members, failed, 11-3. The Council then voted unanimously to give the two in question their choices in the matter.

After their decisions were made, elections had to be held to fill the vacated offices. Nowicki's treasurer post was claimed by Pat O'Neill, Commerce Club president, who won easily over his nearest opponent, Lou White of the Glee Club. Pavalko's senior presidency was filled by Bob Hummel at a special senior election, Jan. 14.

Pregelj Resigns

At this point, Pregelj turned in his resignation as NFCCS representative but was persuaded to remain as representative pro-tem until elections were held to obtain a new man.

So, in case you are confused, your Student Council for the second semester will consist of Pavalko, Phil Gilbert, O'Neill, and John Onohan—the four officers of the Council; Hummel, Nowicki, Ray Priem, and John Gorman—the four class presidents; and the yet-unnamed NFCCS representative.

In explaining his decision later on, Pavalko mentioned it was one of the hardest choices of his career and remarked that he had retained the Council post because "I thought I could do more for my class as president of the Student Council and also because I wish to bring to fulfillment the labors of the past four years (in creating the new constitution) and I felt my decision would also benefit the student body."

Thus spoke Frank Pavalko, head of the class of '52 for the last two-and-a-half years, and out of a class office for the first time in his college life.

SJC Represented In College Meeting By Father Gross

The Very Rev. Raphael H. Gross, president of the college, recently returned from Washington, D. C., where he represented St. Joseph's at the 38th annual convention of the Association of American Colleges, which took place from Jan. 8-10.

The convention consisted of a series of meetings in which guest speakers stated the problems prevalent in American colleges, and the means by which those problems may be rectified. Highlighting the entire affair was an address by Senator Estes Kefauver, leader of the recent Crime Commission investigations. The senator stressed the responsibility of the American college student toward government. He said that organized crime in its present form could be greatly combated if each individual student sought to attain the ideals of American citizenship, which has religion as one of its basic fundamentals.

Father Cavanaugh Speaks

Other important speeches included those by the Very Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, president of the University of Notre Dame; and Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America. Father Cavanaugh showed the need of the strict observance of the ten commandments as a basis for a higher standard of morals in American colleges and universities. The Rev. Mr. Fry emphasized the fact that religion and education must be regarded as inseparable if our colleges are to be improved. Frederick G. Hochwalt, Secretary General of the National Catholic Educational Association and Ambassador John Foster Dulles were among other prominent speakers present.

In connection with the convention approximately 400 college presidents and officials were present at the gathering of the National Commission on Accrediting. The subject discussed was accreditation rights—the act of giving a formal nod of approval to schools or divisions of schools meeting certain scholastic standards.

Case Outlined

The case against too much accreditation was outlined by Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, President of George Washington University. He condemned some 300 free-charging associations who have taken accreditation powers to themselves. Under the new program proposed, all of these self-assumed accreditation agencies would be dissolved.

Only those six already-established associations set up by the colleges and universities themselves will be recognized. The six groups which would retain accreditation rights under the proposed program are: The New England, the Middle States, the Southern, and the North Central Associations of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools, and the Western Association of Colleges and Universities.

St. Joe is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.
